There's no safe time to skip the seat belt.

It's not just a rule. It's about taking responsibility for your life. Whether you're going three miles or three hundred, driving confidently starts with a click.

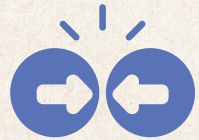

Why we wear it, period:

You're at risk of injury or ejection, even at low speeds.

Airbags alone aren't enough.

Unexpected impacts can happen at any time.

Fines add up quickly.

Unrestrained passengers are your responsibility.
